About the conference:

Africa is faced with various interrelated challenges to peace and security, which impact upon (and are impacted by) the outside world. This conference features a diverse group of speakers, who will offer their perspectives on a number of key security issues on the continent, as well as past and present interventions in response to these issues, and finally, how African security is viewed by the outside world through the lens of the media.

The conference is hosted by the Southern African Centre for Collaboration on Peace and Security (SACCPS): A collaboration between the University of the Free State (UFS, South Africa) and the Osaka School of International Public Policy (OSIPP), Osaka University. It is also co-hosted by the OSIPP-IAFOR Research Centre.
