Admission Policy

In order to achieve personnel development defined in its education objectives, the University of Osaka accepts individuals who, in the course at undergraduate school or master's degree course at graduate schools, acquired basic academic skills, expertise, an attitude of voluntarily learning, and are eager to find and explore problems. In order to select such students properly, graduate schools select students through a variety of screening methods.

In order to nurture personnel who meet its educational objectives, OSIPP carefully selects persons with the following qualities, in accordance with the University of Osaka's Admission Policy.

- Individuals interested in public policy issues such as peace and security, environmental issues, economic development, and the protection of human rights
- Individuals aspiring to unravel and clarify such issues from a variety of perspectives
- Individuals wishing to actively discuss with others, making use of their knowledge and points of view
- Individuals wishing to take initiative in solving public policy issues
- Individuals who are interested in languages, especially English, who wish to improve their proficiency and actively share their ideas with the world

In order to select such individuals for entry into its master course, OSIPP requires applicants to take an examination to measure English proficiency, and conducts an oral examination based on a submitted research proposal. For entry into the doctor course, applicants are required to submit a master's thesis or other equivalent document, English proficiency equivalent to that required for completion of the master's program, and an oral examination based on a research proposal.

- Regarding English proficiency, applicants are required to have achieved a certain level in reputable tests, such as TOEFL, TOEIC, and IELTS for admission to the Master's program, and English proficiency equivalent to completion of the Master's Program is required for admission to the Doctoral Program.
- The research proposal must contain a logical and persuasive explanation regarding the topic the applicant plans to conduct research on after admission, as well as their awareness of the issues associated with the topic, and intended methodology.
- The oral examination tests the applicant's ability in terms of what is contained in their research proposal, as well as their communication skills in persuasively conveying their assertions and accurately answering questions from the examiners.
- The Master's thesis (or equivalent document) is assessed by faculty members based on their professional perspectives.
